John Cullen, not mentioned until his death. Killed at 1am on the 15th. "... our field artillery keep up a covering barrage all night, unfortunately one battery was firing short and accounted for several casualties".

[Does this mean he (and others) were killed by "friendly" fire?]

George Watson's College, Edinburgh:

The eldest son of Mr. Robt. Cullen, solicitor and banker, was born at Bridgend, Islay, in 1895. He attended G.W.C. 1912-14. Adopting the legal profession, he served in a Glasgow office, proceeding thence to the University, where he joined the O.T.C. On obtaining his commission in the 13th A. and S. H., in Aug. 1915, he put in good work with his regiment during the following winter. In June 1916 he was ordered to France, and three months later, on 15th Sept., fell at Martinpuich. (Photo)
