From the nottshistory.org website;

THE FELLOWS FAMILY has long been prominent, and although it is now a departed name in Beeston, yet it is perpetuated in the Church adornment by Mr. C. T. Fellows, and memorials of other members of the family. Mr. Samuel Fellows was Sheriff. Alderman and Coroner of Nottingham, and was Mayor (1755). Mr. John Fellows held the same offices

(except the Coronership) being Mayor 1775 and 1782. His son John held the same offices, being Mayor in 1790. He founded the Bank in 1808, and a copper token was found in perfect condition in 1915, when the "Star Inn" was demolished, Nottingham Castle being inscribed on one side, and "one penny token, 1812," and on the obverse "Payable by J. M. Fellows, Pound Note for 240." It belongs to Mr. J. J. Bywater. Mr. Alfred T. Fellows was Sheriff 1817, as was James in 1824. John, who died in 1873, was J.P., and in the South Notts. Yeomanry. Of Susannah Fellows, who died in 1845, it is testified that "her piety and benevolence endeared her to all who knew her, and those who knew her best admired her most." Mr. Alfred T. Fellows built "Beeston Fields," having the bricks burnt on the spot, and Mr. Geo. Fellows, J.P., before he sold "Beeston Fields" (now the property of Mr. Harold Bowden) was Hon. Major in the South Notts. Yeomanry, of which regiment he in 1895 published a history. Another book by him is Arms, Armour and Alabaster round Nottingham.
